IHS has long term excellent working relationships with Kurna, Narrunga, Nukunu, Kokatha, Ngadjuri, Peramangk, Ngarrindjeri, Barngarla, Nauo Traditional Owners and many other Aboriginal groups in SA.

Additional to the above, some of the companies and Government Departments IHS consultants have worked with include WA Department of Biodiversity, Conservation and Attractions, City of Karratha, Rio

Tinto Iron Ore, Rio Tinto Exploration, Fortescue Metals Group, Brockman Mining Limited, Hancock Prospecting, National Native Title Tribunal, ElectraNet SA, City of Salisbury, City of Onkaparinga, City of Port Adelaide and Enfield, District Council of Mt Barker, Mid Murray Council, Department of Defence, SA Power Networks, SA Water, TrustPower, Pacific Hydro, Walker Corporation, Hydro Tasmania...and many more.

IHS also works with several professional associates and can expand upon its core services to a range of other areas including governance and financial management services, legal advice, audio-visual production, environmental sciences, land surveying and ground penetrating radar.

IHS bases its business on a series of practical processes and methodologies to ensure quality outcomes for all of its clients. These include:

- Quality control procedures based on ISO 9001, with internal review systems to ensure quality outcomes for clients and stakeholders
- All contracts are assigned a dedicated project manager and personally overseen by the Managing Director to ensure quality control
- All documentation is reviewed and approved by senior management prior to submission to clients
- Regular post-project reviews with clients and stakeholders are held to identify improvement measures
- All heritage staff undertake regular training to ensure they are up to date with current heritage management practice

All heritage staff are HLTAID003 Provide First Aid (Senior First Aid) and 4WD qualified and have remote area working experience. IHS adheres strictly to a defined set of ethical principles. IHS consultants are members of the Australian Anthropological Society (AAS), the Australian Association of Consultant Archaeologists Inc. (AACAI), the Australian Archaeological Association (AAA), and in some cases the Australian and New Zealand Forensic Sciences Society (ANZFSS), Environmental Institute of Australia & NZ (EIANZ) and The International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS), as well as other professional associations. These associations have established sets of ethical guidelines with which members agree to abide, governing relationships with clients, colleagues, employees and students, and Indigenous informants and communities.

Financial systems are managed by a fully qualified accountant and bookkeeper and full transparency of services rendered can be provided to the client every step of the way.

IHS use regularly updated and modern, ruggedized field equipment and access relevant licences for GIS spatial services (ArcGIS).

IHS consultants are fully covered by relevant insurances including Public Liability ($20 000 000), Professional Indemnity ($10 000 000) and WorkCover.
